LawBase Nominated in Fifth Annual Best of the National Law Journal Readers Rankings Survey

DENVER – January 11, 2016 – LawBase, the leading case and matter management system in the legal industry, today announced that the company has been nominated in three categories in the 2016 Best of the National Law Journal Readers Rankings survey.

The National Law Journal Readers Rankings survey gives the legal community the opportunity to acknowledge those they believe to be the best providers of legal products and services. LawBase has been nominated in the following categories:

- The Nation’s Best Matter Management Software (Question No. 27)
- The Nation’s Best Case Management Software to Law Firms (Question No. 28)
- The Nation’s Best Docketing and Calendaring Software (Question No.29)

“Being nominated in all three of these categories again in 2016 is an honor,” states Phil Homburger, president of LawBase. “LawBase has been helping law firms, corporations and government agencies run efficiently for more than three decades, and we are always thrilled when the product is recognized for what it brings to the organizations that use it.”

Voting is open until February 5, 2016, at www.surveymonkey.com/r/2016BestNLJ.
