Case and matter management software to bring automated system to Parr Richey Obremskey Frandsen & Patterson

Denver, CO – March 19, 2013 – LawBase, the leading case and matter management system designed to increase productivity, has been implemented by Indiana law firm Parr Richey Obremskey Frandsen & Patterson.

The adaptable nature of LawBase contributed to the firm's decision to implement the software. LawBase will integrate with other best-of-breed software solutions already in use at the firm, including email, calendaring, document management and billing, providing centralized functionality in order to maximize efficiency.

"We performed a needs analysis prior to investigating case management program options, and LawBase met every criterion," states Lori Hutchens, firm administrator for Parr Richey Obremskey Frandsen & Patterson. "Its integration with iManage and customization for different practice areas are two key elements that put LawBase above other case management programs we investigated. The design and installation of the program went very smooth, and the staff at LawBase was very responsive, flexible and efficient. LawBase was definitely the right decision for us!"

"We are thrilled to welcome the firm to the LawBase family," adds Phil Homburger, president of LawBase. "We look forward to providing them with the best case management solution for each of their practice areas."
